

[Download] The Temple- Its Ministry and Services (English Edition)

The Temple- Its Ministry and Services (English Edition)

Von Alfred Edersheim

DOC | *audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF | ePub

Download

Read Online

Produktinformation -Verkaufsrank: #694350 in eBooksVerffentlicht am: 2010-04-26Erscheinungsdatum: 2010-04-26File Name: B003JH8B16 | File size: 17.Mb

Von Alfred Edersheim : The Temple- Its Ministry and Services (English Edition) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Temple- Its Ministry and Services (English Edition):

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen1 von 1 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Well-written, understandable, essential for Messianic studyVon Ein KundeThis is a great book for foundational learning in Bible study. It presents the Temple as it was in the time of Solomon and in the context of the Mosaic Law. It relates that Temple to the ministry of Jesus and how all that He did was set within the context of atonement, sacrifice and worship of the One True God. Von 1 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Evokes the atmosphere of the Jewish Temple very well. Von Shmuel ben Naftali. This book was written towards the end of the 19th century, and the style of writing betrays this. Edersheim occasionally adds Christian interpretations, which can be a bit distracting. However, the images he builds up of the services in the Jewish Temple of the 1st century CE, are very edifying and uplifting. It is often difficult to realise, even in the 20th century, the sense of holiness and reverence that the ancient worshippers felt; also the feeling that, when they entered the Temple, they were actually coming into the presence of God. This book is a valuable historical work; very few books are dedicated to the spirituality of a lost, ancient institution such as the Jerusalem Temple. It is an excellent book, both from an historical and a spiritual perspective. The only improvement on this work would be to remove the Christian overlay on what was essentially a Jewish institution, so that people can read about the Temple, not only to gain a sense of what the people who used it (Jews) felt, but also so that the reader can make up their own mind, and develop their own interpretations. I would recommend this book to anyone interested in learning more about the Temple in Jerusalem as it was in the 1st century CE.

Kurzbeschreibung Alfred Edersheim - (1825-1889), Anglican Biblical scholar. Edersheim was a scholar and writer on the traditions of the Jewish faith and Life of Christ. He was born March 7th, 1825 in the city of Vienna, Austria. His parents Marcus and Stephanie Beifuss were of the Jewish faith. In Vienna he studied in the gymnasium and University of Austria. Around 1845 he moved to Pesth, Hungary where he met John Duncan and other Presbyterian ministers, who were chaplains to Scottish workmen building a bridge over the Danube River. Under their influence he became a Christian and came to Scotland with Dr. Duncan. In 1843 he entered New College until 1844. In 1846 he entered the Presbyterian ministry and thereafter preached for a year as a missionary to the Jews and Germans at Jassy in Rumania. He came to Old Aberdeen Church in 1848 and remained for twelve years. Here he translated several German theological books into English and wrote his History of the Jewish Nation from the Fall of Jerusalem to the reign of Constantine the Great. "Reverend Alfred Edersheim was the second minister of Free Church known then as Old Machar Free Church. After twelve years at Free Church, Alfred's health started failing, he resigned and moved to Torquay in the county of Devon, England. In 1861, he gathered a congregation and in 1862 they built St. Andrews Presbyterian Church in Torwood Gardens, Torquay. Because of deteriorating health problems he had to resign from St. Andrews and moved to Bournemouth a spa on the south coast. In 1875 he became an Episcopalian and ordained a deacon and priest in the Church of England. For a year he was the (unsalaried) curate of the Abbey Church, Christ Church, Hants, near Bournemouth. In 1876 he became vicar of Loders, Dorsetshire; resigning in 1883, moving to Oxford, where he was select preacher to the University from 1884-86. Because of his health condition he eventually moved to Menton, France where he passed away March 16th, 1889. His publications as author, translator, editor, and contributor to dictionaries and serial works, are very numerous. Perhaps the best-known and best known are The History of the Jewish Nation from AD 70-312 (1857); The Jubilee Rhythm of St. Bernard, and other Hymns (1866); The Golden Diary of Heart-Converse with Jesus in the Psalms (1874), The Temple: its Ministry and Services as they were in the Time of Jesus Christ (1874); Sketches of Jewish Social Life in the days of Christ (1876); The Life and Times of Jesus the Messiah (1883, 2 vols); Prophecy and History in relation to the Messiah, (Warburtonian Lectures, 1880-84) 1885; The History of Israel from the Sacrifice on Carmel to the Death of Jedhu (1885).

Kurzbeschreibung Alfred Edersheim - (1825-1889), Anglican Biblical scholar. Edersheim was a scholar and writer on the traditions of the Jewish faith and Life of Christ. He was born March 7th, 1825 in the city of Vienna, Austria. His parents Marcus and Stephanie Beifuss were of the Jewish faith. In Vienna he studied in the gymnasium and University of Austria. Around 1845 he moved to Pesth, Hungary where he met John Duncan and other Presbyterian ministers, who were chaplains to Scottish workmen building a bridge over the Danube River. Under their influence he became a Christian and came to Scotland with Dr. Duncan. In 1843 he entered New College until 1844. In 1846 he entered the Presbyterian ministry and thereafter preached for a year as a missionary to the Jews and Germans at Jassy in Rumania. He came to Old Aberdeen Church in 1848 and remained for twelve years. Here he translated several German theological books into English and wrote his History of the Jewish Nation from the Fall of Jerusalem to the reign of Constantine the Great. "Reverend Alfred Edersheim was the second minister of Free Church known then as Old Machar Free Church. After twelve years at Free Church, Alfred's health started failing, he resigned and moved to Torquay in the county of Devon, England. In 1861, he gathered a congregation and in 1862 they built St. Andrews Presbyterian Church in Torwood Gardens, Torquay. Because of deteriorating health problems he had to resign from St. Andrews and moved to Bournemouth a spa on the south coast. In 1875 he became an Episcopalian and ordained a deacon and priest in the Church of England. For a year he was the (unsalaried) curate of the Abbey Church, Christ Church, Hants, near Bournemouth. In 1876 he became vicar of Loders, Dorsetshire; resigning in 1883, moving to Oxford, where he was select preacher to the University from 1884-86. Because of his health condition he eventually moved to Menton, France where he passed away March 16th, 1889. His publications as author, translator, editor, and contributor to dictionaries and serial works, are very numerous. Perhaps the best-known and best known are The History of the Jewish Nation from AD 70-312 (1857); The Jubilee Rhythm of St. Bernard, and other Hymns (1866); The Golden Diary of Heart-Converse with Jesus in the Psalms (1874), The Temple: its Ministry and Services as they were in the Time of Jesus Christ (1874); Sketches of Jewish Social Life in the days of Christ (1876); The Life and Times of Jesus the Messiah (1883, 2 vols); Prophecy and History in relation to the Messiah, (Warburtonian Lectures, 1880-84) 1885; The History of Israel from the Sacrifice on Carmel to the Death of Jedhu (1885.)

Buchrckseite Jerusalem's temple represented not only the glory of Israel's past but the splendor of its future, when the Messiah would come and reign over God's people. To recapture the essence of the temple's significance, both in the life of Israel and in the life and theology of the early Christians, readers are fortunate indeed to have as a tour guide that eminent scholar of Judaism and the New Testament, Alfred Edersheim. Readers who want to experience the grandeur of Herod's temple - the temple that Jesus "cleansed" - or the anguish of a temple trodden by Roman soldiers will appreciate Edersheim's knowledge of and passion for the temple of Scripture. Readers will also welcome this newly typeset, highly readable edition with illustrations and marginal references from Scripture, Philo, Josephus, and the Mishnah.