Jesse James bis Wyatt Earp Von Thomas Ewald Der Autor ist bemüht, ein Ranking der Gesetzeshüter und der Gesetzlosen zu kreieren. Vieles ist oberflächlich, was aufgrund des schmalen Umfangs des Buches wohl auch nicht anders sein kann. Es bietet einen passablen Überblick, aber wer Ausführlichkeit verlangt, sollte zu anderen Werken greifen.

Kurzbeschreibung The author has written several books about ghost towns in the Southwest Death Valley, the Mojave, Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada. Those books have very much been about places. This book, focused on gunslingers and lawmen, is very much about people - the sort of people that populated many of the Western towns in the post-Civil War Old West. The gunslinger category is focused on people famous for handling a gun, who were not (primarily) in law enforcement. This could include scouts, outlaws, target shooters, and quick draw artists. Among the names in the "Top 10": Annie Oakley, Butch Cassidy, John Wesley Hardin, Doc Holliday, Billy the Kid and Jesse James. The lawman category includes gunmen, sheriffs, known as much for their shooting and quick draw ability as for their law enforcement skills, and also several professional law enforcement personnel who made their careers as sheriffs or marshals, and started to develop what later would become standard procedures for law enforcement officials in the 20th century. Among the "Top 10" in the lawman category: Wyatt Earp, Wild Bill Hickok, Pat Garrett, Allan Pinkerton and Seth Bullock. This edition contains 40 photos, with 14 of them in color.
